

COVID-19: Indonesia Employees' Sentiment on Mental Health & Well-Being

The pandemic has changed the way most of us work daily, but has also impacted our mental well-being. We find out if professionals in Indonesia are coping well.

4 out of 5

say that their professional stress levels have increased since the onset of COVID-19

66%

feel pressured to be 'always on' while working from home

Out of those feeling pressured,

3 in 5

say the pressure is self-inflicted rather than coming from their company

65%

have adjusted their work hours since WFH

72%

found the adjustment in hours beneficial to their work life balance

Out of 100,

38

work more hours

35

work similar hours

27

work less hours

Virtual interactions aren't quite making up for face-to-face interactions:

55%

feel a little isolated from their colleagues

23%

feel very isolated

40%

have mental & emotional support from their company

Some company initiatives shared by employees:

- Employee Assistance Programs
- Daily health tracking and check-ins
- Distribution of wellness packs
- Free subscriptions to mental health, entertainment or learning/educational apps
- Multiple interest groups created across regions to engage those with similar hobbies
- Reimbursement for internet plans and WFH equipment expenses
- Webinars on various topics such as managing finances, stress, keeping fit and eating healthy

Survey methodology: A total of 730 respondents employed across various industries in Indonesia were surveyed between 31 March – 10 April 2020.